New residence hall opens its doors

By Bob Manning

Last Wednesday the University of Lowell took a major step forward in becoming the nationally recognized university it is striving to be. The doors were officially opened to the two new residence halls here on campus.

The official ceremony took place at "New North" with the cutting of the ribbon by President Hogan and Burt Paley, head of the Building Authority here at ULowell. The ceremony began at 3:30 with Mr. Paley making some brief opening remarks. President Hogan gave an informal address, saying, "in this gloomy negative world we have a bright spot here today.... Our young people are important to us and we are making a commitment to them."

The focus of his address was the students here at ULowell and how the administration "...won't turn its backs on our young people."

The short address was short, and included some well deserved congratulations. The only person truly singled out by President Hogan was Dean Ellen Duggan.

"She put more time and effort into these buildings than anyone in this whole university," remarked Jake Burke, assistant Resident Director of Fox Hall. Dean Duggan was presented with a special commemorative plaque for her efforts. Taking the modest view of the situation, Dean Duggan was quick to thank many other people like Dean King, Larry Seigal, director of residence life, and the entire University Life staff.

About the new halls themselves, Dean Duggan said, "We want to be a world class university, now we have some world class facilities." She could not have been more correct in her statement about these impressive facilities.

President Hogan and Burt Paley cut the ribbon.

New North has three types of living arrangements. Four person, six person, and eight person suites. There are not more than two students assigned to any bedroom in the suites. All bedrooms have the same dimensions and are spacious, with large desktop areas for both students. There is a common living area and bathroom facilities in each suite.

The most impressive features of the new halls are the fitness areas. There is a weight room with universal and hydraulic fitness machines, a large aerobics area, and men's and women's saunas.

The facility on North will add 350 bed spaces, and along with the facility on South will add close to 1,000 new bed spaces. President Hogan stated,

"The University of Lowell will not be satisfied until it has 5,000 beds..." available for its students.

This was truly a special day for the university, showing the administration's commitment to improving the students' experience at ULowell.

Convocation to set pace for academic year

An Academic Convocation to formally begin the 1989-90 year will be held on Wednesday, September 13, at 11:45 a.m. in Durgin Hall on the South Campus. Although the primary purpose of this Convocation is to help our new students begin the year in an enthusiastic fashion, we encourage all students to participate.

Music will be provided by the ULowell "Marching Chiefs" band; one of the speakers will be our student trustee, Patrick Demers. The Convocation will conclude by 12:30 p.m., after which all participants are invited to lunch in the South Campus Dining Hall. If you do not regularly eat in a University dining hall, complementary luncheon tickets will be available at the Convocation.

All Wednesday classes will meet on September 13, but each class will be abbreviated by 15 minutes in order to "clear out" a block of time in the middle of the day for Convocation and lunch.

This is another in a series of events sponsored by the University to help promote the positive campus atmosphere that everyone would like to see. It is these kinds of events that promote school spirit and encourage students to take pride in their school.

The "New North" ribbon was cut last Wednesday.

University of Lowell Announces 1989-90 Performing Arts Series

Oliver Chamberlain, Executive Director of the Center for the Arts at the University of Lowell, has announced the schedule for the 1989-90 Performing Arts Series.

About to begin its fourth season, this successful program of events features regionally, nationally, and internationally known artists in classical music, dance, theatre, and jazz. Again this season in addition to its on-campus events, the Center will present performances in downtown Lowell. There will be two concerts at historic St. Anne's Church, and two attractions at the Lowell Memorial Auditorium. Also, at the invitation of Dr. Andrew Swedlow, Director of the Whistler House museum of art, the Center will present four programs at the Whistler House Museum Parker Gallery.

The Performing Arts Series will open on September 30 with a Parker new chamber group "Folios" (cello, flute, soprano, and guitar) will present an eclectic mix of music including an aria by J.S. Bach, a pavane by Faure, and a tango by Argentine composer Astor Piazzolla.

On October 13, the Dave Brubeck Quartet will swing into Durgin Hall on the University's South Campus. Dave will pound out the stomping chords of favorites like "Take Five" and "Blue Rondo a la Turk," joined by Randy Jones on drums, Chris Brubeck on electric bass and trombone, and Bill Smith on clarinet.

The award winning New World String

Quartet and acclaimed clarinetist David Shifrin will give a concert at St. Anne's Church on October 22. They will perform quartets by Haydn, Dvorak, and the Quintet for clarinet and strings by Brahms.

A remarkable nineteen-year-old jazz alto saxophonist Christopher Hollyday will bring the series back to Durgin Hall on November 3. Just out with a new release on RCA records, Hollyday blows up a storm on bop standards from the 40's and 50's.

On November 12, the popular Boston pianist Randall Hodgkinson will give a solo recital at the Parker Gallery featuring the work of local composer Harry Chalmiers.

Then back at Durgin on November 17, America's pre-eminent Gilbert and Sullivan repertory ensemble, the New York Gilbert and Sullivan Players, will present G & S's hilarious operetta, "The Mikado."

Two special programs will light up the holiday season. First, on December 3, there will be a performance on Handel's "Messiah" by more than 100 members of the Worcester Chorus and Orchestra at the Lowell Memorial auditorium. Then, on December 15, at St. Anne's Church, the Boston Camerata will perform carols and other yuletide music in "Sing We Noel — An English and American Christmas."

In the first event of the new year, Comedian Hal Roach will join Jury's Irish Cavaret of Dublin on February 1, at Lowell Memorial Auditorium. Hal Roach, "The King of Blarney," and a company of thirty singers, dancers, harpists, fiddlers, and storytellers will give the audience a taste of the real Ireland — mischievous, merry, and rich with tradition.

On February 16, the Newport Jazz Festival All-Stars, led by Newport Jazz Festival founder George Wein, will play the hot, sophisticated standards of the Big Band Era.

Violinist Tamara Smirnova-Sajfar, the brilliant young associate concertmaster of the Boston Symphony and concertmaster of the Boston Pops, will give a recital at the Parker Gallery on February 25.

On March 2, the 26-member American Indian Dance Theatre will bring an energetic extravaganza to Durgin Hall with whirling and spinning dancers, drums and chants, and stunningly vibrant costumes.

Actor Vincent Balestri will recreate Jack Kerouac, author of On the Road, in a one-man show on March 10. Based on over eight hours of memorized material, this unusual theatre piece is part impersonation, part anecdote, and pure homage to "The King of the Beats."

Boston's own Muir String Quartet will perform Masterpieces from traditional string repertoire and the Boston premiere of a work by local composer Harry Chalmiers at Durgin Hall on March 25.

Next on April 6, there

ULowell Faculty member opens center's performing arts series

This year's diverse and dynamic season at the Center for the Arts will open on September 30 with a performance by ULowell faculty member Neil Anderson. On the guitar faculty here and at the New England Conservatory, Neil will be performing with his new chamber ensemble Folios.

"Folios can't be pigeon-holed into one medium of music or one genre," says Anderson. "With a repertoire spanning five centuries and several continents, we perform all manner of chamber music with guitar. There's something for everyone really because, though I have a classical music background, entertainment is important to me. I want everyone to have a good time."

Other members of the group are Randolph

Bowman, principal flutist with the Boston Pops Esplanade Orchestra; soprano Judith Kellock; and award-winning cellist, Andres Diaz.

On Saturday, September 30, Folios will perform an eclectic mix of music including an aria by J.S. Bach, a pavane by Faure, and a tango by Argentine composer Astor Piazzolla. The performance will take place in the Parker Gallery at the Whistler House Museum of Art at 243 Worthen Street, downtown Lowell.

Tickets are priced at $5 for students, if purchased in advance, or $2 at the door, with student ID, if any are available. To order tickets stop by the Center in Durgin Hall, South Campus, or call 934-4450 (and ask for a brochure describing the 1989-90 Performing Arts Series).

Editorials

Fresh and new

Bob Manning Editor-in-Chief

A new year is now upon us here at the University of Lowell. This year is beginning with many bright spots, as well as many gloomy ones.

I was very impressed last week at the ribbon cutting ceremony for the new residence halls. The facilities really are first rate and to be honest, I never thought that this school could ever have something that appears to be so nice. It was a pleasant occasion for all and I'm sure it was both a moment of pride and of relief for many administrators.

I have also been impressed by the students involved in the residence life program. Many of these students give up their leisure time to help with the program and they are walking examples of "non-apathetic students" as I will call them.

The new student government administration has also impressed me greatly. Yes, they are also my friends, but they are hard working students who are working extremely hard to improve life, services, and communication among and for students.

And on a personal note, I am ecstatic to see a republican speaker here during the first week of school. I know this has been traditionally a blue collar, democratic school, but the number of young republicans is ever growing and its nice to get equal billing.

Now its my turn to bitch and moan. I might as well start with that short hairy guy that is masquerading as the governor of Massachusetts. The man has continually lied to the people of this state and absolutely refuses to take any of the blame for the state's financial mess.

Remember his great Universal Health Care bill. What a sham that is. It has already been postponed until at least 1992, and will probably be postponed even further due to a lack of funding. It would be real nice to live in utopia Mike, maybe you are, but what about the rest of us. Oh, I forgot, higher taxes, that's the answer. Wake up and resign, let the state at least try to get back on its feet.

I just had to get that off my chest.

There are also some issues or should I say problems here at ULowell that are bothering me tremendously. First and foremost, there is no longer a yearbook here at the university. No they didn't run out of money and no they didn't flunk out of school. There is simply no student interest in this publication.

Unless a few dedicated hard working students step forward soon, the class of 1990 and possibly 1991 will have no yearbook to look back upon.

Even the Connector has fallen upon some lean times. There is only a small handful of us left and we are all getting nervous. We will be around to talk to some of you and others will hear about us. I wish I had some of those res life staffers, we could use them.

If anyone is interested in getting involved in joining either the yearbook staff or the Connector staff, come up to Fox 426 any time during the day or on Monday nights.

This could prove to be a very exciting and very interesting year on many different fronts. Will there be further cutbacks in the state, or here at ULowell? Only time will tell. But for now we'll just have to carry on with our school work and see what the tide rolls in.

Editorial Policy

Throughout the year this page will be a forum for students, faculty and administrators to voice their opinions on various issues. These issues can range from university procedures and politics to national and moral issues such as abortion. Usually, all submissions will be published. Unfortunately, sometimes we simply run out of room and have to edit or cut some submissions down in size.

The only requirements to submit something for any page or section of the paper is that it be typed, double spaced, and that it have your name and university mailbox number.

Editor's Note: The Connector is going through some significant changes in its format. We have installed a completely new Macintosh Desktop Publishing system. This conversion has been lengthy and tedious. You may notice some sections of the paper are not as they used to be or as they should be. Please bear with us as we initiate this transition.

A message from the SGA President

Now that summer break is all over, I would like to take a few minutes to welcome you back and to fill you in on a few of the things that the Student Government Association has been working on for the last few months.

As you know, the budget situation in the state is terrible and there is no relief in sight for the near future. Due to this fact, I have formed a Student Lobby Committee with Patrick Demers (Student Trustee) as chairman. The purpose of this committee will be to find ways to lobby the Legislature, the Governor and the general public to support the University and higher education in Massachusetts. This committee will also begin to work with other state universities to achieve improved funding for all of the public institutions in the state. In the weeks to come you will be hearing more about this group from Patrick and myself.

During the summer, the Activities Commission has been working closely with the executive board of student government to plan events for the upcoming semester. The A.C. director, Brenda Sadowski, and the rest of the A.C. have planned a number of events for the first few days of school, I hope that everyone takes time to come and enjoy these events and kickoff the year the right way. The A.C. has also begun to plan "HOMECOMING 89", which plans to be a really great month of events. We will be giving you more details as October approaches.

In the next few weeks the S.G.A. will be placing mail boxes around the campus. These boxes will be there for you to write to Patrick or myself and let us know your concerns about the University. We need to hear from students in order to insure that we are representing you properly. We will hopefully be answering a letter or two a week in the Connector and we will answer every letter if you insure that there is an address enclosed. So please take a few minutes to let us know how you feel.

I feel that this year has the potential to be one of the most interesting and exciting years ever at ULOWELL, but this all depends on you, the student. This year the orientation theme was "Make the Difference", I hope that everyone decides to do just that! Get involved in a club or organization or simply come to the various concerts and events that will be happening this year. Help make this the best year ever at ULOWELL.

Thomas Winston

Transfer Students

Transfer students must bring their I-20 issued by the University of Lowell to the Office with their I-20 I.D. Card (yellow card). If the student has left the United States and returned on this I-20, immigration will record the transfer. All transfer students paper work is now handled by the new school instead of the previously attended one.

These new regulations went into effect as of May 22, 1987 and must be adhered to for F-1 students to remain in status. Failure to follow this procedure will result in cancellation of your registration.

NOTE: Please bring a copy of your I-94, Yellow I.D. Card and the page of your Passport showing your initial arrival date into the United States.

Intra-mural softball info

Recreational sports two-pitch softball tournament

The Recreational Sports Office will sponsor a Co-rec Two-pitch Softball Tournament as part of the Welcome Back Week festivities at the University of Lowell.

The tournament will be held on Saturday, September 9 and Sunday, September 10. Entries will be accepted beginning on Tuesday, September 5 and teams will be able to enter right up to tournament time.

Each team must supply their own pitcher and each batter will have two pitches in which to hit the ball. As soon as the defensive team has gotten the offensive team out, they may begin hitting as soon as they are ready, which makes for a very fast paced game of softball.

The two-pitch softball tournament is just the beginning of an exciting year that the Recreational Sports Office has planned for the University of Lowell student body.

Intramural competition will begin in September with flag football, tennis and golf. Look for information concerning sign-ups in Costello Gymnasium or the Recreational Sports Calendar that will be available at the beginning of the fall semester.

Non-credit instructional classes will be offered in aerobics and hydro-aerobics. These classes will feature high quality instruction at a minimal cost. Other classes will develop as interest increases.

The Sport Club Program will also be housed in the Recreational Sports Office beginning in the fall of 1989. Anyone interested in finding out more information about the sport club program may contact Brad Davis at the Recreational Sports Office between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.

Informal recreation is also available at both Costello Gymnasium and also at Mahoney Gymnasium on south campus. Costello Gymnasium has two basketball courts, two racquetball/handball courts, three squash courts, a Universal/Nautilus weight room equipped with stationary bikes and rowing machines, a free weight room and an indoor swimming pool. Mahoney Gymnasium has one full basketball court and one weight room.

Anyone interested in more information concerning the Recreational Sports Office may call 934-2348 weekdays between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m..

Sign-up for Independent Activity Old and New Ways

Old Way - For First Semester

For first semester, students will go to the particular professor to seek his/her permission to sign up and then, once permission is given, will sign up with that professor. (See "Note" p. 12 [schedule of Classes Book.]

New Way-Beginning For Second Semester

Since the course requires the instructor's permission and since the computer cannot give permission, we have devised a new method to allow students to register on the computerized registration sheet when doing all other courses. This should simplify matters (one hopes!!).

1. During the advising period, students wishing to take Independent Activity will go to the Independent Activity professor to seek permission.

2. If okayed, the Independent Activity professor will fill out a form granting permission and give a copy to the student.

3. The student takes that form to his/her advisor. 4. Students presenting such a form to the advisor may sign up for 39.227.

5. No form-NO PERMISSION- no sign up.

If this goes as planned, it should save time and energy. Students can then sign up at the same time they do all other courses. Should a student wish to add it at a later date, he/she would then follow the normal "add" procedure.s

Varsity golf info

Coach Bob Callary's varsity golf team will play one of its most ambitious fall schedules ever. Ranked number 2 in the NCAA District 1 rankings, the team will attempt to improve to number 1 by a strong showing this fall.

Lead by Senior Captain Greg Bonheur, who will be closing out an outstanding career here at the university, the team will be made up of some fine returning veterans. Bonheur, an academic All-American, as well as a Golf All-American, is coming off his second appearance at the National Division II Championships. Joining him will be Jr. Joe Maher, Honorable Mention All-New England from Melrose, MA, New England College Conference Champion Jay Fredette of Stow, MA and Jason Gurney, most improved last season, from New Bedford, MA. Rounding out the squad from last season and expected to contribute to the team's improvement are Sean Smith and John Hennessey of Chelmsford, MA, Jeremy Fennelly of Nashua, NH, transfer Rob Hardy of Pelham, NH, and Mitch Kamal of Methuen, MA.

Any student interested in playing varsity golf should contact Coach Bob Callary at Room 309 in Costello Gym or extension 2301 Athletics during the first week of classes.

Welcome to the University of Lowell Residence Life Program!

I wish to welcome each of you to the exciting world of residence life. 1989 has been an incredible year for our program; we have opened two new suite style residence halls on our campus, added telephones to every residence hall room, and installed new windows in Smith and Eames. We have also added three full-time employees and 18 R.A.'s. There are now over 100 people directly involved in Residence Life here at Lowell. There are new meal plan choices, and 3 bank machines (Shawmut), and a convenience store is being built in Fox Hall. All these additions and improvements are part of an effort to make your living experiences as successful as possible as we move into the 1990's. Living on campus is an important part of your college experience. Our staff is here to provide activities, solve problems, and help guide you through your academic challenges. There are many opportunities for each of you in our program as well. The Residence Hall Association and each building's individual Hall Council, are student-led organizations which sponsor social and recreational activities. Working on your hall council is an excellent opportunity to meet people, gain leadership experience, and to have fun. In the past, the RHA, hall council's, and R.A.'s have sponsored a plethora of events from trips to the Red Sox, Semi-formals, pizza parties, intramural teams, and casino nights to educational programs that challenge and support your personal and academic growth as well. These activities and others are waiting for you in our Residence Life Program. The most important thing is to get involved. Come join us for the time of your life! See your staff and meet your hall council representatives - or become one! Have a great year and enjoy your academics! Larry Siegel

Director of Residence Life

Important meal plan info

In the next few weeks students and food service will be learning a completely new dining program. As the result of dining surveys and the Ad Hoc Food Committee's efforts, we are offering a progressive set of options for meal plan participants. The foundation of this progress is the introduction of "points" to replace meals that have in the past been unused. "Points" are actually dollars that can be spent in many of our retail operations, as well as for traditional dining hall meals. Choices:

Traditional 19. We have retained this plan that allows entry to all 19 meals we serve, 7 days per week. There are no points associated with this plan.

10/5 day. We have also kept this plan that allows access to any 10 of the 15 meals we serve Monday-Friday. There is no weekend service or points associated with this plan.

The New "point" plans are all variations of the 19 meal plan. We have taken some of the previously unused meals and replaced them with "points".

14/7 day. This plan allows access to any 14 of the 19 meals we serve Sunday-Saturday. It also has an additional $63/00 each semester in "points".

10/7 day. This plan allows access to any 10 of the 19 meals we serve Sunday-Saturday. It also has an additional $125.00 each semester in "points".

"Points" can be used in many ways. You can purchase items at the continued to page 16

Student Health Insurance

Welcome back and we hope you all had a relaxing and healthy summer. Many students may be confused about our new student health insurance plan for this year and the Student Health Services (S.H.S.) staff would like to point out some important points.

During college will be the first time that most students are responsible for their own health care, and one of the most important things to consider is when to seek care. We encourage all students to come to the S.H.S. first for any illness or injury, except of course in a life threatening situation. When in doubt whether a visit is necessary a student may call the Health Service for advice.

The S.H.S. is open Monday-Friday 8-4:30. In the event a student is ill or injured at night or on the weekend he/she must decide if the problem can wait until the Health Service is open, or whether he/she should go elsewhere for care. Often times consulting with a member of the Residence Life staff can help in making a decision.

It is important to note that the new insurance policy charges a $50. deductible for any Emergency Room visit that does not result in an admission to the hospital. This is to discourage any unnecessary use of the Emergency Room facilities for anything other than a true emergency.

There is also a $35. deductible for a visit to a hospital outpatient clinic or a $10. deductible for a physician's office visit. Again these costs should be taken into account when deciding when to seek care. Care at the S.H.S. is free of charge to all full-time graduate and undergraduate students who have submitted the required health records. The student will be responsible for ANY prescription costs, lab or x-ray fees that may be needed.

Insurance claim forms will be available at the S.H.S. office located on North Campus behind Lydon Library, and a representative from the insurance agency will also be available to assist with filling out claim forms and resolving any problems regarding claims.

We hope you all will remain healthy throughout the school year, but if you need us we are available, even to just answer any health related questions you may have.

The Commuter Association: Off to a strong start

Have you ever found yourself wandering around Lowell not knowing where you are? or which streets to avoid? or where to park? Well there is finally an organization that can offer you some help - The Commuter Association. The Commuter Association is a new organization formed last semester to provide services and activities for students who do not reside in university housing. This new Association will act as a medium to represent these commuter students to the Student Government Association.

Momentum is starting to build for the Commuter Association. Under the leadership of Timothy Lloyd, chairman of the Association, the Commuter Association has been able to raise close to $7,000 in funding. A large portion of that funding was used for the first annual Commuter Student Orientation Day, held on September 2nd for incoming freshman who will be commuting to the University. The publishing of the first annual Commuter Association Resource Handbook has added to the new organization's momentum and commitment to being a resource organization for students here at the University. In addition to all else, the new group has brought a discount card on campus. This first annual Commuter Association Discount Card will offer discounts to all students, faculty and administrators at area restaurants, fitness centers, and specialty stores.

Membership is continuing to grow for the Commuter Association in addition to the fifteen or so current members, a list of forty three incoming freshman have shown interest in joining the organization. In addition to students, Rev. Imogene Stulkin and Father Paul Garrity have joined on as Associate Members. Mary Connelly, Dir. of Student Activities, has taken the initiative in becoming the Commuter Association Advisor.

Fortunately, the Commuter Association has been able to secure a office on campus. Their new office is located on south campus in the Mary McGauvran Student Union Center on the third floor in room 340. It is here where students can pick up copies of the Commuter Association Resource Handbook and the Commuter Association Discount Cards. You can stop in anytime.

Arts

will be some family entertainment by mime extraordinaire Gregg Goldston. Goldston pulls hilarious characters and scenarios out of thin air and makes invisible props more than real. The widely-praised Alvin Ailey Repertory Ensemble will bring classics from the Ailey dance repertoire to the Durgin stage on April 21.

The final event of the Performing Arts Series will be a Parker Gallery concert by the Apple Hill Chamber Players. One of the best known ensembles in New England, this lively septet will perform traditional and new music for piano and strings.

This year there will again be a special subscription series. Audiences can create their own three or more event series from among the seventeen offerings in the schedule. With a subscription series, subscribers can save up to 25% on single ticket purchases.

Information about the Performing Arts Series and special events for children are available by writing to the Center for the Arts at the University of Lowell, Durgin Hall, room 116, Lowell, MA 01854 or by calling (508)459-0350.

On-Line Adds and Drops

In a continuing effort to better serve the students of the University, the Registrar's office will process all Add/Drop forms on-line as the forms are received. This will help you in two ways:

1. You will immediately know that your change went through okay and if not what to do about it.
2. This will also allow us to give priority to those of you who have met your financial obligations to the University or received a clearance to register from the Business Office. Students who have an outstanding balance will be required to get cleared by the Business Office before they will be allowed to make any academic adjustments.

Until the Registrar's office is reconfigured to allow for on-line transactions, the Add/Drop forms will be processed at terminals located in the corridor outside the Registrar's office in Southwick Hall from 8:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily from Sept. 5 until Sept. 18.

South Campus A La Carte which will be having new evening hours from 5-8:30 p.m. Monday-Thursday. "Points" will be taken at the Rathskeller in Fox Hall, for Itza Pizza delivery to residence halls, and at hockey and basketball concessions. "Points" can be used to purchase traditional dining-hall meals for yourself or for guests. We will be adding "point" capabilities to our La Carte service outside Southwick Lounge early this fall, and finally we will be opening our new convenience store in early October to allow point purchases for those "keep in your room" type items. We will continue to work with the food committee and to survey meal plan participants to create new uses for your points.

You will be asked during the first week of classes to choose the plan that best meets your needs. On Monday, September 11th we will permit the first use of points. This delay will give all students a chance to evaluate their needs. There are two very important considerations when choosing a plan. First, you cannot carry over, or be reimbursed for any unused points at the end of the semester. Second, you may purchase additional points at a discount should you run out during the semester.

If you have any questions about these plans or any of our services, please don't hesitate to contact me at our food service office in Fox Hall.

Thanks, Ray Handy

Educational Opportunities Program Spring Fare

Students, staff and guests of the Educational Opportunities Program gathered in Southwick 305 for the annual "Spring Fare" buffet luncheon on April 4th. Students welcomed the chance to take a break from their studies, socialize with friends, participate in a drawing, and of course, share the delicious lunch provided by the ARA food service.

The variety of the lunch itself stimulated discussions on the relative merits of black and green olives, and particularly, the correct way to eat hot peppers. Amy Vanderbilt was not at the luncheon, but it was decided that they must be eaten in one bite, down to the stem. Willie Burks, who must keep the Guinness Book of World Records by his bed, informed students and staff that the record for eating hot peppers in this manner was forty-two in two minutes.

Lady Luck

accompanied Dulyne Paul to the Spring Fare. She took the grand prize in the drawing, and will receive $100.00 toward books and supplies for her courses next semester. Several other students won smaller gift certificates from the bookstore.

After sharing lunch and conversation with students, Gloria Johnson, EOP Director, outlined the changes that will occur in the program in the fall. The most important of these will be the introduction of a "Strategies for Chemistry" course. Like the other "strategy" courses which the program presently offers for American Politics, History, and Psychology, the Chemistry course is designed to assist EOP students' learning through individualized and group study. The courses focus on critical analysis, organization, prediction and review. Students who attended the various strategies courses this year saw an improvement in their grades.

The Spring Fare was a success, and we look forward to the Fall Fare which will be held next semester.

New EOP students will be welcomed to the ULowell campus on Sunday, June 18th, to begin a four day Summer Orientation Program, beginning with a reception for parents, students, and staff. Student leaders and staff will guide the incoming EOP class in an extensive orientation to the University, and to the Educational Opportunities Program. In addition, the students will receive a brief course in college survival skills. The Summer Orientation will provide an opportunity for students to get to know one another, and to enjoy these days of June together.

The EOP is pleased to welcome all new students to the University of Lowell.

The Connector is looking for new staff members. Not only can you have fun and make money, but you can gain valuable experience in any of the following areas:

Bonzo, Krang, and all the others would get themselves into.

Just set your peepers on the beloved comics page next week and every week for all the super-antics of ULowell's longest running comic strip zanies.

is here...

...but not for long!

That's because there are only a thousand issues of this digest sized Funny
after the World sci-fi Convention this week there'll be even fewer available!

Tom Verre, of Connector fame (so to speak), spent his entire summer putting together a magazine containing art and stories by some of the best in the business! Mike Kazaleh, Kjartan Arnórsson, Tom Linehan, Bill Fitts, and Garrett Ho. Tom even had time to include some brand new work of his own!

Yep! And now you can get in on the fun! Felicity is 24 pages of fantastic furry artwork complete with a sharp, two color glossy cover done
by Tom V.

To get your very own copy send $2.00 (two measly dollars) to Tom Verre at box 6137. You'll not regret it!
